NIC Director Morris Thigpen to Retire

After serving 18 years in the Bureau of Prisons as Director of the National Institute of Corrections (NIC), Morris L. Thigpen, Sr., will retire, effective December 29, 2012.

A native of Meridian, MS, Mr. Thigpen began his career in corrections in 1971, with the Mississippi Department of Youth Services. There he served as Coordinator of Personnel and Training, Superintendent of the Training School, and Director of Juvenile Probation and Parole. In 1977, Mr. Thigpen was appointed Director of the Community Services Division, Mississippi Department of Corrections, where he was responsible for the State's adult probation and parole services. Three years later, he was appointed Commissioner of Corrections, a position he held until 1987, when he became the Commissioner of Corrections for the State of Alabama. In 1993 he returned to Mississippi to serve as Deputy Administrator of the Department of Human Services. He was appointed Director of NIC in 1994 by Attorney General Janet Reno. Mr. Thigpen has served under five Attorney Generals and three Bureau of Prisons Directors, leading NIC for almost half of its 38-year existence. Under his leadership, NIC has become an integral part of corrections, by pioneering initiatives designed to meet the needs of its numerous constituents (e.g., national corrections and criminal justice associations, state and local corrections agencies, and other law enforcement entities) and by ensuring NIC is highly responsive to the field.

Under Mr. Thigpen's direction, NIC began offering online learning and promoting evidence-based practices, years before they became commonplace. NIC has led national efforts on detection and prevention of staff sexual misconduct (a precursor to the Prison Rape Elimination Act), female offender issues, leadership development for women, and enhanced probation and parole supervision, particularly in the area of offender reentry.

Mission of the Bureau of Prisons
It is the mission of the Federal Bureau of Prisons to protect society by confining offenders in the controlled environments of prisons and community-based facilities that are safe, humane, cost-efficient, and appropriately secure, and that provide work and other self-improvement opportunities to assist offenders in becoming law-abiding citizens.

Mr. Thigpen holds a B.S. degree from Millsaps College, Jackson, MS, and a M.Ed. degree from Mississippi State University. He is active in several professional organizations and has served as President of the Association of State Correctional Administrators and the Southern States Correctional Association. He has received numerous awards in recognition of his commitment and leadership in corrections, including the Department of Justice Award for Public Service and the Innovations in State Governments Award from the Council of State Governments. Mr. Thigpen was the very first recipient of the Michael Francke Award from the Association of State Correctional Administrators and he also received the highest honor bestowed by the American Correctional Association – the E.R. Cass Correctional Achievement Award.

On NIC Director Thigpen's decision to retire, Director Charles E. Samuels, Jr., said: "Under Morris Thigpen's outstanding leadership, the Bureau and the entire corrections profession have evolved to meet the difficult challenges faced by corrections agencies throughout the country in a more effective and efficient manner. He helped bring the corrections profession together creating a network that will be in place for many years to come. We will always be grateful to him for his support to the BOP and the corrections community throughout the country."

Institutions Host Official Visits

FCC Beaumont

On December 6, a delegation of Japanese prison officials visited FCC Beaumont. The primary focus of their visit was to conduct emergency preparedness research. Executive Assistant James Robinson and Emergency Preparedness Officer Richard Hollingsworth gave the group an informative briefing on all aspects of the National Incident Management System and Crisis Management Team members provided an overview of emergency response tactics and equipment.

L. to R.: Yukio Kono, International Affairs Officer; Hiroyuki Yashiro, Assistant Director, Corrections; Complex Warden John B. Fox; and FCI Medium Warden Carlos V. Rivera

FCI Elkton

On November 26, The Honorable Jim Renacci, U.S. Representative for the 16th District of Ohio, visited FCI Elkton. Congressman Renacci met with the institution's executive staff, toured the institution, and received overviews from various department heads. The Congressman was impressed with staff professionalism and their dedication to preparing inmates for reentry.

L. to R.: Associate Warden Bill Story; Associate Warden Jeff Lorenzini; Congressman Jim Renacci; Captain Robert Wilson; and Warden Joe Coakley

FCI Terminal Island

On December 4, Sara M. Revell, Assistant Director, Program Review Division, visited FCI Terminal Island. Ms. Revell attended a Department Head meeting, toured the institution, and attended a staff recall. During the recall, Ms. Revell discussed the current state of the agency and shared Director Samuels' message to staff; she also participated in the presentation of a Memorial for the Bureau's fallen officers, constructed by Maintenance Foreman Supervisor David Sias.

L. to R.: Captain Everett Cottrell; UNICOR Factory Manager Nicelio Sanchez; AD Sara Revell; Acting Associate Warden Keith Porter; Warden Conrad M. Graber; Associate Warden Carlos Devezza; and Maintenance Foreman Supervisor David Sias, in front of new memorial to Bureau staff killed in the line of duty.

FPC Yankton

Dr. Newton Kendig at FPC Yankton

On November 28, Dr. Newton Kendig, Assistant Director, Health Services Division, visited FPC Yankton on behalf of Director Samuels. His visit gave FPC Yankton the opportunity to demonstrate some new institution initiatives. FPC Yankton has implemented technology that allows inmates to participate in virtual training programs in welding and Commercial Driver's License instruction as well as participate in college courses at the institution. The institution has established excellent community partnerships that allow inmates to provide valuable assistance on community service projects including Habitat for Humanity and working with the Corps of Engineers and local park staff in construction and clean-up activities. Inmates also provide services to the blind in repairing audio recorders and reading the daily newspaper so it can be broadcast over local radio stations. During a staff recall, Dr. Kendig congratulated staff for taking such a proactive approach to training inmates to prepare for release.

FCC Tucson's New Video Remote Interpreter Services for Deaf Inmates

FCC Tucson recently implemented the Bureau's first Video Remote Interpreter (VRI) services for deaf inmates. FCC Tucson houses deaf inmates in all three facilities. In order to fully satisfy the needs of these inmates, FCC Tucson proposed the idea of a tele-video interpreter service to the Western Regional Office and the Central Office in early 2012. The VRI project took several months to complete and required cooperation by various departments including the Business Office, Facilities, Computer Services, and Legal.

The first step was to research, approve and install the VRI internet connection, purchase equipment (stand-alone computers, HD-camera, audio headsets and touch-screen monitors) and contract for the DSL service. TCS Associates received the VRI contract, providing access to interpretation services 24 hours a day, seven days a week, up to 850 minutes per month. The VRI is installed at three sites at the USP: the Associate Warden's Office, Medical Department, and the Education Department. Computer Services also installed one VRI system at the Camp's medical office.

While VRI is an alternative to using live interpreters, it is not intended for longer and more complex communication with deaf inmates. For example, the Education Department still uses live interpreters during their class sessions attended by deaf inmates.

FCC Lompoc Staff Attend Federal Reentry Court

On November 1, FCC Lompoc staff visited the Federal Court Building in Los Angeles, California. The purpose of the visit was to familiarize staff with the Substance Abuse Treatment and Reentry “STAR” program which offers a creative blend of treatment, sanction alternatives, and incentives to effectively address offenders’ behavior, rehabilitation and the safety of the community. During the visit, the group observed reentry court proceedings and explored strategies for improving collaborative efforts between the Bureau and the court. The Honorable Otis D. Wright, II, U.S. District Court Judge, and Michelle A. Carey, Chief U.S. Probation Officer, for the Central District of California hosted the visit.

FCI Safford Leadership training participants

FCC Tucson

During the week of December 3-7, FCC Tucson held a Spanish Immersion class for staff. Due to the large number of Hispanic inmates housed at FCC Tucson, it is especially important for staff to be able to effectively communicate with this population. Along with basic grammar, the training emphasized commands and expressions to manage inmates, as well as recognition of words that may pose a concern for staff in a correctional setting. The class provided staff the opportunity to practice basic phraseology designed specifically to manage and supervise inmates. During the graduation ceremony, class participants were able to demonstrate their newly acquired Spanish language skills.

Institutions Hold Staff Training

FCI Safford

From November 17-21, FCI Safford conducted a 40-hour leadership training course for 17 staff. Topics included Keys to Success, communication, leadership traits, reentry, and effective writing skills. The training included group teamwork exercises and individual public speaking assignments.

FCI Loretto's New Automotive Repair VT Program

FCI Loretto recently activated a new Advanced Occupational Education program in automotive repair. Twelve camp inmates who are within 24 months of release were selected to participate in the 650 hour (six month) program. The instruction is being provided through Greater Altoona Career and Technology Center. After the course has been offered for one year, the National Automotive Technicians Education Foundation will conduct an audit that will allow the program to be ASE-certified in the areas of suspension, electronics, general repair/maintenance, and brakes. FCI Loretto expects 24 students (two classes of 12 inmates) to complete the program annually.

Institutions Sponsor Special Programs

FCC Allenwood

FCC Allenwood's Federal Women's Program (FWP) recently sponsored a Breast Cancer Awareness "lunch and learn" program. The program featured Executive Assistant Cynthia Entzel, Unit Secretary Arlene Garcia, and Clinical Director Elizabete Santos who shared their personal experiences and struggles associated with fighting this disease. They stressed the importance of early detection and regular self-exams. Staff attending the program had the opportunity to ask questions and receive brochures on the subject. FWP Managers Sara Lada (USP) and Rosalind Silvia (FCI) coordinated the program.

Mid-Atlantic Regional Office

On November 30, the Mid-Atlantic Regional Office's Affirmative Action Program sponsored an educational program in honor of National Military Family Month. Andrea Sawyer from the Warriors Speak program, a Wounded Warriors Project, was guest speaker. Warriors Speak is a group of wounded warriors and caregivers who share their stories to draw attention to the growing needs of our nation's wounded service members as well as celebrate the amazing hurdles they have overcome.

Ms. Sawyer's inspirational presentation described the complete change in her husband arising from chronic and severe Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder and traumatic brain injury due to service-related experiences in Iraq. She also related the many struggles that she and her husband have experienced as they work to find appropriate treatment for him.

Holiday Coat and Food Drive

FDC SeaTac

FDC SeaTac's Affirmative Employment Program sponsored a coat and Thanksgiving basket drive to assist the needy at a nearby church and school. Staff donated food and gift cards to help several families enjoy a Thanksgiving meal. In addition, staff donated 36 coats for children identified by their school as needing assistance. The elementary school staff expressed their gratitude for the donations.

Staff Serve the Community

FCI Tucson

On December 6, FCI Tucson Captain Darrin McWhorter delivered a box of used American flags that had been flown at the institution to the Boy Scouts of America's Double V Scout Ranch. The 360 acre ranch is used for a variety of scouting activities. The flags will be used to teach scouts proper folding, handling, and disposal.
